

David Yeadell BA (Hons)

I have been actively involved with art for about 18 years now, although I enjoyed art at school and in the years between. It is an important part of my life and I derive much pleasure from it. Between 2014 and 2017 I studied for an Open University degree; two of the modules were art history, which opened my eyes in so many ways and provided much pleasure. I graduated in October 2017.

I continue to produce work and to exhibit and enjoyed taking part in the NDA Art Trek programme in 2016 and 2019.

Art for Leisure and Pleasure (ALP), an informal community art group, which I formed in 2013, flourishes and proves there is a need for such groups in the community and, importantly, there is evidence of how much talent there is.
